COURSE DESCRIPTION

International relations (IR) is the study of the conflict and cooperation in global politics. It asks both empirical (i.e., what happened and why?) and normative (i.e., what should have happened?) questions. To answer these questions, this course introduces three different empirical perspectives used to understand patterns of international conflict and cooperation — realism, liberalism, and constructivism. Each perspective offers different answers to the core questions of IR: who gets what, when, and how in global politics.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

After completing this course, students will be able to:	This will be assessed by:
Explain current events using different theoretical perspective at the individual, domestic, and systemic level of analysis.	Clicker Questions, Exams and Analysis Paper.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

The following paragraphs outline the basic requirements for this course. More detailed information on specific assignments can be found on Moodle.

Clicker Questions (50 points)

A variety of clicker questions will be used to assess learning and provide a fulcrum for discussion. A clicker participation score worth 50 points will be calculated at the end of the semester using the formula:  $\frac{\text{Total Responses}}{0.9 * \text{Total Questions Asked}} * 50$

Analysis Paper (350 points)

You will choose a major current event in international relations and produce a 5-page paper that analyzes different causal explanations for the event using international relations theory. You will submit via Moodle an event summary (25 pts.), a research process assignment (25 pts.), a table of explanations (50 pts), and an annotated bibliography (100 pts.) during the semester to ensure timely completion of this project.

Quizzes (100 points)

Most weeks on Friday there will be a short 5-10 question multiple choice exam over the readings and lectures. Scores on the quizzes will be averaged to determine the final grade and your lowest quiz will be dropped. There will be no make-up quizzes.

Celebrations of Knowledge (500 points total)

The main mode of assessment in this course are "celebrations of knowledge." The first celebration of knowledge will be worth 50 points and the remaining celebrations and the final exam are worth 100 points each. Each celebration, except the first, will feature an essay submitted electronically prior to the exam and mixture of questions types including multiple choice and short answer in class. A separate essay worth 50 points will also be submitted following viewing of a film on the Rwandan Genocide. Make-up celebrations will be allowed if appropriate documentation of illness, injury, family emergency, or participation in a University sponsored activity is provided. Make-up exams must be approved and scheduled with a TA before the missed celebration.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES

Students have the responsibility to:

1. Attend class regularly.
2. Complete assigned readings before class.
3. Complete assignments by their deadlines.

4. Inform the instructor beforehand of any reasons why they are unable to do this.
5. Complete all requirements within the time frame of the semester. University policy on incompletes will be strictly enforced.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT POLICY

All students must practice academic honesty. Academic misconduct is subject to an academic penalty by the course instructor and/or disciplinary sanction by the University. All students need to be familiar with the Student Conduct Code, which is available for review online at: <http://life.umt.edu/VPSA/name/StudentConductCode>.

STATEMENT ON DISABILITIES:

I encourage students with documented disabilities to discuss appropriate accommodations with me. If you have a disability and feel you need accommodations in this course please present me with a letter from Disability Services for Students (DSS), Lommasson Center 154 (243-2243), indicating the existence of a disability and the suggested accommodations.

GRADING

Final grades are based on the below scale with points distributed as listed above. Grades will be posted on Moodle. Your graded work will not be handed back, but students are welcome to review graded work with the TAs during their office hours.
